To make a family happy one every member has to think of the comfort and convenience of others. If everybody acted selfishly, the family would break-up. Similarly, society which is only a large family, would be destroyed if every member of it were selfish. I do not mean that it is wrong to think of oneself or to work for oneself. People must earn bread for themselves and their family and work to better their own lot. But in order to prosper they do not have to be selfish. A man is called selfish not because he seeks his own good, but because he neglects his neighbours. You have every right to be happy and prosperous, but no right at all to make others suffer for your good.
