P.T.O.

People moan about poverty as a great evil; and it seems to be an accepted belief that if people only had plenty of money, they would be happy and useful and get more out of life. As a rule there is more genuine satisfaction in and more is obtained from life in the humble cottages of the poor men than in the places of the rich. I always pity the sons and daughters of rich men, who are attended by servants, and have governesses at a late age, at the same time I am glad to think that they do not know what they have missed.

It is because I know how sweet and happy and pure the home of honest poverty is, how free from perplexing care and from social envies and jealousies- how loving and united, its members are in the common interest of reasons that from the family. It is for these reasons that from the ranks of the poor so many strong, eminent, self-reliant men have always sprung and always must spring.
